THE BOSS SNORER.

AN INCIDENT OF A WASHOE LODGING HOUSE.

After the first old man Bullard found lodging on South C. street. He got a bed in a large room containing two other beds that were occupied. Mr. Bullard is a huge, fat, good natured and very entertaining man. The proprietor of the lodging house was much pleased with Bullard, and laughed at his jokes the first evening of his arrival at his place till tears rolled down his cheeks. The men who were to be Bullard's room-mates also thought well of him—that evening. The next morning, however, they looked sad and red-eyed. Then they went to the landlord and told him that he must find some other place for Mr. Bullard, as he was such a terrible snorer they couldn't stand him. The landlord's rooms were all occupied, and he had no place for Bullard but just where he was. The complaining lodgers left, and in two or three weeks two other men were put into the vacant beds. Bullard made short work of them; one night let them out. The landlord sought an interview with Bullard and remonstrated with him. Bullard stoutly asserted that he did not snore—had never been known to snore. The landlord had to give Bullard up as a bad bargain, and turned his attention to looking up lodgers with which to fill his vacant beds. He found men to take the beds, but again Bullard cleared them out in a single night. Growing desperate, the landlord again went to Bullard. He told him he must either leave the house or pay rent for all the beds in the room—$45 per month. Bullard said a bargain was a bargain; he had paid $15 for his bed, and he intended keeping it until his month was up, and he didn't propose to pay for beds he had no use for; he didn't snore, and the man who asserted to the contrary was a "liar and a horsethief." The landlord felt very much depressed after this last interview with Bullard, as he saw determined not to be removed from his quarters. A morning or two after, as Bullard's landlord was going down town, he saw standing in his door a brother lodging house man.

"Thank heaven he's gone!" said the man as Bullard's landlord came up. "Thank heaven, I'm rid of him at last!"

"Rid of whom?"

'Why, of the big fat man you see yonder waddling down the street.'

"What of him?"

'Enough of him! He cleared nearly every man out of my house before he left. They wouldn't stop in the same block with that snorting, Falstaffian porpoise, sir!'

'He's a good one, is he?'

'A good one? He's a perfect terror! He's more different kinds of a snorer than any man I ever heard, and every time he changes his key it is for the worse. While I had him here crowds were gathering in front of the house nightly wondering what was the matter within, and the police came in one night thinking some one was being murdered. My dog ran away, and all the cats left the house, sir!'

'And the man you pined out to me is this snorer?'

'Yes, sir, he is, and may he burst!'

'Good day, sir!' and Bullard's landlord hastened down the street. * * *

The next morning with the first peep of day, Bullard, puffing and blowing, rushed in the presence of his landlord.

'What are you trying to play upon me?' cried he; 'I never slept a wink all night. Of all the infernal noises I ever heard that man in my room got off the worst. Is he going to stay here?'

'Stay? of course he is. Hain't he got the bed for a month?'

"Then I leave" And Bullard was as good as his word.

An hour afterwards the man who had ousted Bullard arose and waddled serenely into she presence of the landlord.

'You've cleaned him out,' said the landlord. 'You raised him; he's gone for good!' and the landlord gleefully rubbed his hands. 'Now,' continued the landlord, 'I'll give you a good, square breakfast, and then you can go.'

'Go,' said the fat man, 'not much I don't. Didn't you say last evening in the presence of Bullard and half a dozen others that I was to stay here a month?'

'But that you know was only to—'

'I know nothing of the kind, and I shall stay here! I am human; I must have some place in which to repose!'

The landlord is now trying to get some man to set up some kind of machine in his house that will oust boss snorer, who now has the whole place to himself except a small room in a corner of the third story, where he and his wife spent their nights in a miserable way.

"Talk about the extravagance in dress of women!" cries Martha Jane, exultingly; 'what do you say to Tweed's six million suit, I'd like to know? He isn't a woman, I guess!'

THE NEWEST THING IN GUNS.

Mounted on a long, wooden trough shaped gun carriage, a singular looking weapon was lying in the mud in the back yard of Mr. J. R. Haskell, of Passaic, yesterday. 'It might be an infernal machine,' said the many who had curiously eyed it from time to time, 'and it might be one of the most wonderful pieces of ordnance ever invented.' The owner and inventor, who has spent fifteen years and $100,000 in perfecting the gun, takes the latter view, and asserts that his invention will revolutionize the system of offensive armament. He calls it an 'accelerating gun,' and it is planned on the novel principle of boosting the projectile along by secondary, tertiary and quaternary explosions after it has received its first impetus by the explosion at the breech.

The barrel is about twelve feet long, and is made of steel, tapering from the muzzle, that is two or three inches thick to the breech, which is a round piece of steel three or four inches through. On the under side of the barrel at equal intervals are small brazen globes opening through narrow necks into the bore of the barrel.

These are designed to hold loose powder, and they are charged through small holes in the bottom, into which brass screws are tightly fitted. The bore is made to accommodate a half-inch, finely temptered steel projectile. In firing the gun, the chamber in the barrel is filled with powder, and then the steel missile, which is about nine inches long, is pressed firmly against the charge. The pockets are next charged and screws are replaced in their bases. The nipple is at the base of the breech, and the first charge is fired by means of a cap placed on the nipple. As the projectile is shot forward followed by a stream of fire, it ignites the powder in each of the pockets at the instant it passes over the neck. It receives a new impulse by the explosion of each pocket of powder, and it is at length shot from the muzzle with an extraordinary velocity and power. The amount of powder that is expended at a single discharge, Mr. Haskell says, is sufficient, if it were all placed in the gun tube, to fill the gun to the muzzle and to blow the barrels to atoms. To utilize all the force of the different explosions the pockets are placed at such an angle with the barrel that little of the explosive impulses are wasted against the upper surface of the barrel. Mr. Haskell has worked hard and enthusiastically with his invention, and he asserts for it unlimited possibilities. He says that with the little imperfect trial gun, which has only a smooth bore, that he can throw a steel projectile over twelve miles, and that at a moderate distance he can pierce the steel armor of any ship of war. With a weapon of greater weight, rifled bore, and more powerful ball, the imagination of the inventor shrinks from the conjecture of what it can achieve.

Mr. Haskell gathered a few of his neighbors together on last Saturday, and shouldered his gun, the party repaired to the stone quarry of Mr. Paulison in the suburbs. The weapon was charged and everything was gotten ready. Mr. Haskell advanced to discharge the cap, and then the valor of most of the spectators yielded to discretion, and they ran and hid among the stones. Mr. Haskell with perfect confidence discharged the piece several times, and with wonderful effect. The first target, which had been placed but a few feet from the gun, was a solid piece of monitor iron, four inches thick. The steel missile passed through it as through a piece of pine board, and pinned it to a hard wood block, which was also pierced for several inches. The next target was made of nine thicknesses of locomotive boiler iron securely bolted together, and the ball cut through this as though it were pasteboard. The explosion was but little louder than that of a heavy rifle, and the recoil was so light that Mr. Haskell said that it would not produce a severe shock if the gun were held at the shoulder. Mr. Haskell has taken out patents for his gun in nearly every country in the world, and he says that there are 'millions and millions' in it. He has constructed two similar weapons that are to be tested by the Government; one of them has a 1½ inch bore, and the bore of the other is about six inches. The latter piece, it is thought, will throw a ball from fifteen to twenty miles. Mr. C. P. Young, of New York, is interested with Mr. Haskell in the invention.

Though Mr. Haskell does not consider that he is the inventor of the gun, it is, however, his genius an ingenuity that have brought it to the standard of practical utility. A Mr. Lyman, after whom the weapon has been named, first discovered the principle on which it is constructed. The power of the gun may be understood from the assertion that it will send forth a ball at the rate of 8,000 feet a second, while the greatest velocity hitherto attained was that of about 1,500 feet to the second. A trial of the gun was announced for Thursday at Sandy Hook, at the Government yard, but through the delay in mounting the cannon it was not made. A long and thorough test will soon be given.

HOW TO SAVE.

The way to save is to begin with little matters—and to begin at once. No one ever made his way from poverty to riches who scorned economy in small things, and could not comprehend the value of a single cent. The poor man, who would get ahead pecuniarily, must learn that to save cent after cent—one at a time, if he can do no more—till he gets a hundred of them, and so has a dollar, is a wise and noble thing for him to do. Having thus actually saved his first dollar, he will have acquired with it a power of self-denial and a tenacity of purpose which will enable him to save one dollar after another till he gets a hundred. And then he can save on indefinitely, and become independent in fortune.

'But,' says some one who has lived all his life without saving, 'how am I to save. My habit are fixed. How can I learn to lay by something for old age?'

You must do as to money matters what a certain ancient school of philosophers did as to morals. Those old sages used every night, to review their actions for the day, and see what they ought not to have done that they had done, and what they might have done better of the things which it had been necessary for them to do. So, too, must you, every night, review the outlays of the day, and see what you have spent and how you might have got more economically whatever it was necessary for you to obtain. Any one who faithfully makes such a review of his expenditures will be apt to discover many opportunities for "retrenchment and reform." And then, if he will, he can at once begin to save, and may acquire economical habits which will secure his future prosperity.

BRINE BUTTER.

Among the many devices for keeping butter in a manner that preserves the rich, rosy flavor of new, with all its sweetness, is the following from the Dutchess Farmer, which is said to be entirely successful: 'To three gallons of brine strong enough to bear an egg, add a quarter of a pound of nice white sugar, and one tablespoonful of saltpetre. Boil the brine, and when it is cold strain carefully—Make your butter into rolls, and wrap each separately in a clean white muslin cloth, tying up with a string. Pack a large jar full, weigh the butter down and pour the brine until all is submerged. This will keep really good butter perfectly sweet and fresh for a whole year. Be careful not to put upon ice butter that you wish to keep for any length of time. In summer, when the heat will not admit of butter being made into rolls, pack closely in small jars, and using the same brine, allow it to cover the butter to the depth of at least four inches. This excludes the air, and answers very nearly as well as the first method suggested.

The following extract is from a very interesting address delivered by Maj. W. J. Sykes, at Brownsville, Tenn.

To be a perfect farmer a man should combine reading, observation and practice. A man may work in the fields all his life and be a poor farmer. We should gain knowledge by reading and study, and also by what we see around us, and then this knowledge must be put into practice. Our views, if they will not stand the test of actual experiments, are worthless. All sound theory is based upon practice, and all sensible practice is the result of well grounded information, whether learned by our own observation or from the experience of others. That theory which will not stand the test of experience is worthless, and that practice which is not based upon sound theory is equally worthless.

PARALLEL OF THE SEXES.

The North American says there is an admirable partition of the qualities between the sexes which the Author of being has distributed to each with a wisdom that challenges our unbounded admiration:

Man is strong—woman is beautiful.
Man is daring and confident—woman is diffident and un-assuming.
Man is great in action—woman in suffering.
Man shines abroad—woman at home.
Man talks to convince—woman to persuade and please.
Man has a rugged heart—woman a soft and tender one.
Man prevents misery—woman relieves.
Man has science—woman has taste.
Man has judgment—woman sensibility.
Man is a being of justice—woman an angel of mercy.

When a man in Wisconsin, who was running for the office of Lieutenant Governor, was asked by a friend if he thought his experience was such as to qualify him in the discharge of his office, he said he thought he ought to be—he had been Lieutenant Governor in his own family ever since he was married.

A white boy upon meeting a colored boy asked him what he had so short a nose for upon which the darkey replied: 'I 'spect it's so I won't be poking my nose into other folk's business.

It is a happy moment in a young girl's life when she discovers that her lover's moustache and her hair are exactly the same shade.

A writer asks the following pungent questions: When the following classes are taken out of our churches, how many would be left?

All who will not pay just debts.
All who are hypocritical.
All who are deceitful, and talk about others behind their backs.
All who get into debt without a prospect of paying the same.
All who are proud and scornful, holding themselves above their fellow men, and shun those less fortunate than themselves.
All who worship money more than they do their Creator.
All who speculate on the ignorance of others.
All who are tattlers.
All who think more of wicked rich men than they do of a pious poor one.
All who oppress the poor.
All who make long prayers for the sake of being heard and seen of men.
All who are vain and self-conceited.

When these, and a good many others that could be mentioned, are taken out, the church will be left without a member. The religion of Jesus does not have any of the above defects. It makes the true convert cheerful, hopeful and charitable; disposed to visit the widow and orphan, and to keep unspotted from the world. It does not make one proud, scornful, but on the contrary, makes one desirous of doing good to be meek and humble, and to be kind to all, as opportunity may offer. Oh! that we had less pretention in our churches, and more genuine Christianity.

The New York World denounces Mr. Blaine as a hypocrite in his political sympathies and professions. Speaking of his maneuvers on the floor of the House last week, it says: 'It was an attempt to wriggle out of his original proposition to inflict a peculiar and public disgrace upon Jefferson Davis by representing it to be merely opposition to a proposition to pay him peculiar honor; as if it were not absurd to describe as an honor that which everybody possesses by being born and growing up to be twenty-one years old in the United States. If he had succeeded in what he set out to do, he would have succeeded by an appeal to sectarian hate and sectional hate, which are as low passions as any low politician ever tried to stir up. If he had succeeded, therefore, he would have become infamous. But he has failed to do anything but waste four days of good time, and nobody in his senses will be likely to pick up Mr. Blaine, of Maine, for a political leader again.'

[From the New York Sun.]

The republican leader have at least the virture of taking care of their own household—at the public expense. Grant has pensioned all his kindred and connections of every kind. Frelinghuysen, Howe, and the principal Senators, convert their sons or their relatives into clerks of committees, with high pay and nothing to do. Mr. Blaine has a brother in the Senate's employ and another as paymaster in the army, and others of his family are said to be taken care of elsewhere. Mr. Fish has a son, secretary of legation at Berlin. Bancroft Davis has a son, clerk of the Alabama commission. Even the immaculate Washburne, who recently revived his old-fashioned notions as a qid for the nomination, has just had his son appointed secretary of legation at St. Petersburg. So they go. The families are getting established in diplomacy as they are in the army and navy.

John M. Clayton is a large Delaware peach-grower, and very successful. He says that lime is the best manure he ever applied to peach trees. He scrapes off the dirt, and then applies from three to a dozen shovelfuls of lime fresh from the kiln to the naked roots. It kills the grubs and favors the growth of fruit. Sometimes the larvæ of the curculio under peach trees can be killed by a heavy dressing of fresh slaked lime.—Southern Farmer.

The Atlanta Herald is enthusiastic in its admiration of Mr. Hill. It says: 'It does not weaken our faith in his effort one whit, to hear that certain Democratic members think Mr. Hill went too far and said exactly what Mr. Blaine wished him to say. We have been perfectly well aware that certain Democratic members were sitting on their envious haunches, patiently waiting the opening of Mr. Hill's mouth, in order that they might make this very remark. Mr. Hill has plenty of enemies. He is too great a man to be without them. It is fortunate for him that he has a personal character sterling enough to surround him with devoted friends, and a genius powerful enough to compel the admiration of even those who hate him.

Wasting sweetness—Putting your arm about a pretty woman.

One handsome girl in a dry-goods store will make every man in town feel like buying his wife a dress.

NOT IN THE FAMILY.

An old Detroiter brought home two jugs the other day, one labeled 'boiled oil' and the other 'turpentine.' They were placed in the barn, and pretty soon it was noticed that the old man had business there at regular intervals. His oldest son slyly followed him and saw him taking a deep draught from one of the jugs. The old man heard a step outside, and before going out he arranged those jugs according to his artistic taste. He was hardly gone when the son skipped in and took a drink from the jug out of which he supposed his father drank. The next moment we was sputtering, coughing, gaping, and the old man entered and asked: 'Turpentine doesn't agree with you, does it?'

'But I saw you drinking it!' exclaimed the injured and indignant son.

'That is true, said the old man, while a beautiful smile played over his face, 'but it doesn't necessarily follow that the rest of the family must relish turpentine because I do!'—Detroit Press.

A few weeks ago a gentleman of Baltimore wished to obtain a live red bird, and hearing that one was in the possession of a gentleman in this city visited the latter and purchased the bird. While the sale was being made the bird's owner, who had recently recovered from an attack of variola, took the bird from its cage, when it pecked at his finger. The purchaser took the bird to Baltimore, and, as it was a very handsome one, took great pride in it. He was therefore much pained to see it, a few days after reaching its new home, begin to droop as if ill. In a day or two more a rash appeared on its body, displacing the feathers, and the next day its head became swollen and covered with scab, and it died. At a loss to know what the peculiar symptoms meant, the gentleman called in his medical adviser, a prominent physician of Baltimore, who, after examining the dead bird, pronounced that it had died of small-pox! Then the bereaved owner recalled the fact that the bird had pecked at its first owner's hand, as stated above, and it was concluded that ti had contracted variola at that moment.—Cumberland News.

The messing system has been in successful operation at Richmond College for several years. Two students are appointed by the faculty to act as commissaries. It is their duty to buy provisions and to furnish whatever is necessary for the mess. This they are able to do with little or no loss of time from their studies. A dining room and kitchen are furnished by the faculty. A lady is employed as housekeeper, who takes charge of the table and cooking arrangements. She presides in the dining-hall, and with the aid of the commissaries see that order is preserved and that the servants do their duty. Each member of the mess is required to pay into the common fund $10 per month, and at the end of each month a strict account is rendered and a settlement made by the commissaries according as the average has exceeded or fallen short of $10. The main feature of the system is that board is furnished at actual cost, and no one makes a percentage. The Messing Club now numbers between fifty and sixty students. Thus far the board has averaged $8 82 per month; this amount includes all expenses, matron's salary, provisions, &c.—N Y Times.

The burial of Capt. A. G. Moore, who met his death, as elsewhere recited, took place in the village grave-yard, at this place last Saturday. The remains were brought from the residence of Col. T. M. Holt, the brother in law of the deceased followed by an immense concourse of relatives and friends. From all parts of the county many had assembled in the town to pay their last respects by being present at the last sad rites and duties, which the living can bestow on the dead. The funeral services were conducted in the Presbyterian church, by Rev. A. Currie and were appropriate and impressive. From the church to the grave yard, a distance of about a quarter of a mile, the cortege passed. It was by far the largest ever seen in our town. The employees of the late firm, of which deceased was a member were in attendance in large numbers, and with bowed heads and grief stricken faces they testified the affection and esteem in which they held their late employer. We should estimate the number in the procession at not less, certainly, than a thousand, while it may have been many more.—Gleaner.

Leap Year.

The Western Sentinel says: It is stated that in a work entitled, "Courtship, Love, Matrimony," published in 1680, ten years before the death of Shakespear, is this explanation regarding ladies' privileges in leap year.

"Albeit, it is now because a part of the common laws, in regard to social relations of life, that as often as every bissextile year doth return, the ladyes have the sole privilege, during the time it continueth, of making unto the men which they do, either by words or looks, as to them it seemeth proper; and moreover, no man will be entitled to the benefit of clergy who dothe in any wise treat her proposal with slight or contumely.'

Hillsborough Recorder.

WEDNESDAY..... FEB. 9. 1876.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Proposed by the committee regarding the third term, proposing to limit it to one term of four years, came up for discussion on Wednesday. It was defeated by a vote of 144 yeas—nays 104, (not two thirds) a strict party vote, the Republicans evidently believing that their party will still have the honors of executive patronage for a long time to come, and therefore not willing to vote away their high privileges.

That it is worth something to the incumbent, Mr. Knott's speech in favor of the amendment, quoting the expenses and emoluments of the presidential office makes clear: "A salary of $50,000, a mansion sustained in a style of luxury that few persons dream of, furnished, repaired and heated at an annual expense of $25,000, the very air breathed there perfumed by rare exotics propagated in a $50,000 garden house, maintained at an annual expense of $5,000, a private secretary at $3,000 a year to do the Presidents writing, two assistant secretaries at $2,500 a year to do the work of the private secretary, two clerks at $2,500 a year to do the work of the assistant secretaries, a stewart at $2,000 a year to supply the Presidents table with the choicest of wines and the richest of viands to tempt or satiate his appetite, $6,000 for books, stationery, periodicals, telegram and contingencies &c."

No wonder Grant craves a third term. If the Republicans will insist upon two or more terms, let the people give the Democrats a share to enjoy its pleasures, and profit by its emoluments.

THE WHISKEY TRIALS.

The trial of McKee editor of the Globe Democrat of St. Louis for complicity in the whiskey conspiracy has just been concluded by his conviction. McKee goes to the Penitentiary.

There is something very terrible in this reverse of positions. McKee is comparatively an old man, is pleasant and genial in his manners, has many warm personal friends, had powerful social influence, and as a politician has been a prominent leader of his party. He was one of your eminently respectable men, above the necessity of theft, and saved by his position from the contagion of guilt if he had so willed it. But he fell into the slough that was the favorite wallow of his party. There ought to be little sympathy when men like McKee come to punishment. It is the very respectability of position, the confidence in the respect of the people that emboldens men like him to take liberties with what ought to be sacred to the public use and finally to lose all shame and all discretion while they gorge themselves with the spoils of an impoverished and distressed people.

It is true McKee may claim some extenuation. He but followed an example that was fashionable. He fell into a current of crime that he saw connived at. He associated with criminals high in office and high in executive favor, whose guilt was known and whose guilt was concealed. And he saw too that his crime was one serviceable to his party, for out of the spoil, a heavy assessment was always exacted to keep up party organization, to attain certain ends and to carry, if possible all elections. He but participated in the vices of his party.

He is brought to the end of his career; brought up by the sharp but unexpected turn of justice. The people should take care to bring his party up equally abruptly, for the conviction of some of their leaders is not going to reform them though it may induce a little more caution.

People may think what they please about candidates and express their preferences as freely as they please. But it is somewhat unwise long in advance of an election to fix affections too strongly upon any one favorite. It generally ends in killing off such candidates. Grant will probably profit after all by such mortality, and Democratic aspirants will suffer equally by the fatality that attends premature haste. There is too much time given to dissect character and to pick flaws. The wisest plan is to think much but say very little until the approach of the nominating Conventions. It will do no harm, in the meantime to discuss the merits of all those who may be worthy of the distinguished honor of election or defeat; and the same advice might well apply to the Gubernatorial nomination.

The anticipated schism between the Ritualists and the Orthodox church of England will not take place. It was reported that negotiations had been going on between the head of the Ritualists and the Pope, under which it was proposed that the clergy of the ritualist branch would accede in a body to the Romish Church. This is now denied on authority, and Rome will not gain the body of converts that was expected.

A HEAVY GALE.

One of the heaviest and certainly one of the most widely extended tempests that ever prevailed in this country swept over the land on Tuesday night and a great part of Wednesday. It extended from the farthest points from which we have heard, and passed away off to the North East as far as Nova Scotia with increasing fury. In the Northwest and in the lake region it was equally fierce, and accompanied with snow, and on the Ohio, it is said to have been the heaviest blow for twenty five years. Few disasters at sea are yet reported, but on land particularly North of Virginia the damage was immense. In Baltimore 325 houses were unroofed, in Philadelphia and New York a large number; while a large number of church steeples were blown down; one at Cohoes, N. Y. 225 feet high and containing a fine chime of bells was blown down and fell across a rail road track. A brick Catholic church was destroyed at Woonsocket, R. I. The damage is to be counted probably by millions The wind blew in New York at the rate of 66 miles an hour. In North Carolina the wind was very high and in some places fearful, as at Wilmington where several families are said to have sat up all night to await the worst. But we hear of no damage, except the wreck of a small schooner near the mouth of the Cape Fear River.

The Republicans seem to be much divided in their preferences for a Presidential candidate. Some time since the South was all for Grant and the third term, and a letter writer from North Carolina remarked that it was amazing to see how rapidly the enthusiasm for that nomination had blazed out. It was like the flame from a brush pile, but like a brush pile, has soon burnt out. The wise men of the party are on another track, and now we hear it said that leading Republicans from North Carolina are very warmly advocating Bristow and Jewell. It is funny to see these fellows courting some body who has character and honesty. But Bristow has made character for himself, not for the party that claims him.

Others again are hanging on to Morton's fortunes, whilst Blaine has his followers, and so all four, and possibly half a dozen others to boot will measure strength at the national Convention, and then Grant will come in and settle their differences by declaring that the emergency has come, and he is the man.

The people of the North do certainly excel in the horrors of their crimes. They may prate to eternity about the barbarity of the South, but the South has never yet made such inconceivable cruelty as attend innumerable crimes committed on the pharisaic soil of the land beyond Mason and Dixon's line; as for instance that of Probst, who killed seven of one family, some years ago near Philadelphia, dispatching them one by one, as they came slugly to his murderous hand, all to possess himself of a few dollars; or that of Le Page who violated and then cut off the head of an innocent school girl; or, to go back a little, and a little higher up in the social scale, that of Dr. Webster who killed his creditor Parkman whom he had invited into his study for a settlement, and then coolly cut him up, and burned his body piece meal. And now comes another of the same class, where a man at Greenpoint, L. I., invites a friend and companion to his house, carouses awhile with him, and then when in a state of stupor, slays him, and cuts him into bits, and packs him away to be removed at leisure.

With all the deplorable bloodshed at the South it is free from the additional guilt of cold blooded brutality

The Centennial is beginning to prove itself a reality. From the nethermost parts of the earth the nations begin to present themselves. The farthest East—or measuring by the direction from which they come—the farthest West has put its representatives on American soil. The peculiar civilization of Japan is about to measure itself with our standard. The Commissioners from Japan have arrived at San Francisco, and will at once proceed to Philadelphia to arrange the articles which will represent the culture of a country so utterly unknown to us until of late.

It is rumored that Bristow has agreed to support Morton for the Presidential nomination, and will not be a candidate himself under any circumstances. He is the only Republican yet named who gives any promise of redeeming the country from the ruinous effects of his party's rule. He is honest, and he is capable, and for that reason he makes no show for the nomination. But we cannot believe he will support Morton as a matter of preference.

The Secretary of War has given the special committee on the Texas border troubles assurance that he will send additional troops to the Rio Grande.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

Mr. Morrison introduced into the House on Monday his bill for altering and modifying the existing tariff on imports. On woollen goods, the present tariff is reduced, being made 35 per cent. On iron there is a large reduction. On tea, the duty is 15 cents per pound, and on coffee 3 cents. The system of the tariff is based upon revenue and not protection, and consequently many articles of consumption will be much cheaper than when duties were levied to foster some special interest.

The Commissioners appointed to wind up the Freedman's saving's Bank at Washington, which was the depository of three millions of the savings of the negroes and which blew up about 18 month ago, have just made a report. They report that they can make good about thirty per cent. The balance is all lost, lent to Tom, Dick and Harry, and secured by worthless guarantees.

It was all the work of the Republicans. But the affection of the darky for the party is not weakened.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5th.

Some most startling exposures have been made in the Senate of the fraud, rottenness and corruption that have characterised the management of this District. When the republicans, unable any longer to withstand the current of public opinion, abolished Boss Sheppard's government, the act appointing the commissoners and board of audit distinctly prohibited the increase of District debt. In direct violation of the law, the debt has been increased several millions, and the people of the United States have these millions to pay. The whole matter was thoroughly ventilated by the democratic Senators, and to their credit be it said, some republicans joined them in the work. But under the act money must be paid. It seems to be exceedingly difficult to get a government for this District. Suffrage puts power in the hands of a negro rabble, and they elect the worst theives they can find, and appointments by Grant have only proven that as a detective, he can beat the negro rabble, for he has succeeded always in finding bigger thieves to put in office; a new deal will probably be tried this session.

RETRENCHMENT AND REFORM.

The work of reform goes bravely on in the House. Expenses are being reduced in every department, though the radicals are fighting the reductions, and it is feared the republican Senate will not agree to the appropriation bill, and will, by a committee of conference, force them up. While the democrats really desire to reduce the expenses as a political measure they can stand that kind of a movement. That the democrats will force a reduction of at least twenty million dollars is now certain. Had they full power it would be more than double that sum. The efforts at reform are not confined to the finances alone. There have been many and flagrant abuses in the judiciary department of the Government, and the Judiciary Committee is at work trying to correct these. But in corruption and rascality are being developed that absolutely startle the searchers and almost excite incredulity at the magnitude of their ramifications. From the highest to the lowest, all connected with these affairs are more or less implicated, either in theiving themselves or concealing the thefts of others. The bottom facts will not be arrived at for some time, and only those unusually favored can bear anything of what is being done and that only upon a promise of secrecy. The committees are absolutely forced to this course, as were their work public, every effort would be made to defeat them by keeping witness away and destroying papers. Quite a number of witnesses, summoned from Minnesota and the Northwest to appear before the Indian Committee, have arrived this week.

TEXAS AND PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The advocates of this road have been before the Pacific railroad committee of both the House and Senate during the past week, with arguments showing not only the necessity but the economy of the asked for aid, and proving conclusively that the Government will be amply protected in guaranteeing the interest on the bonds of the road, which is all that is asked for. The Hon. John C. Brown, late governor of Tennessee, is now vice-president of the Texas Pacific, and is here in charge of its interests. He declines to use the lobby, or any disreputable means, to carry the bill putting it solely upon its merits as a great national work demanded by the people and for their benefit. The Union and Central Pacific oppose the bill as it would destroy their monopoly, and your correspondent last evening heard a man, supposed to be in their interest, say these roads "will spend a car load of money" to defeat the bill.

PRESIDENT MAKING.

continues, and the friends of the various prominent men are "working double tides" to secure the nomination of their friends. Senator Bayard is the favorite of the hard-money men, but the insignificance of the vote of his State, and the certainty that it will go for any democrat, weakens his chances and increases those of Tildens, whose friends claim that his selection is necessary to enable the party to carry New York. Sherman's friends make the same argument for him as to Ohio, and claim that he is the only man from the west who can carry both Ohio and New York.

Hendricks is now the most favored by the western men and by all those opposed to immediate resumption, it being admitted that neither Pendleton, Allen, nor any other pronounced greenback man carry either New York or any of the Eastern States. Judge David Davis, of the Supreme Court, is frequently spoken and he is more feared by the republicans than any one else as he represents the conservatism of the whole country, and has a record that cannot be attacked. The republicans are at work also, endeavoring to evolve unity out of the claims of a dozen aspirants, the friends of each of whom say he is strongest. Blaine has decidedly the inside track though Conckling's friends are zealously striving to secure a Conkling delegation from New York, which, if they should succeed in doing, will keep the ex-speaker from ever getting the vote of that State as Blaine and Conkling are bitter enemies. The declaration of Senator Sherman in his Hayes letter, that the renomination of Grant would "be suicidal folly," about settles the third term question, for that part of his letter has been endorsed by all factions of the radicals, even the National Republican, Grant's home organ, agreeing to it is of little interest, except that part of it relating to Cuba. The Government denied to the House of Representatives that any communication Cuban affairs had been sent to any foreign power but Spain, yet it turns out that Secretary Fish sent copies of his Cushing letter (already published) to our Ministers in England, France, Germany, Austria, and Russia, with instructions to lay it before those powers. This proves that Grant not only violated the traditional policy of the Government—the Monroe doctrine—but, to say the least and use the mildest language possible, equivocated in his answer to the House.

The work on the Centennial building progresses finely, and in my next I will give some notes of the progress made.

THE LAST CALL.

Without More Money.

I HAVE about closed out the Stock of Goods assigned to me by H. N. Brown for the benefit of his Creditors; there is a small balance remaining, for the sale of which, I will give notice of a Auction in a few days and let them go at what they may bring. But there is a large amount still due on the books. Now I wish you all to understand as I have got through with the goods, I am going to give the books my personal attention, and what is due on the books must be paid. And now I appeal to you as honest people to come forward and pay what you are owing. If you cant pay in full and can make it plain to me that you are willing to do all you can, I will compromise with you. Now don't say when I put your notes and accounts in an officers hands for collection Parks might have asked me for the money, and not run me to cost. I do ask you now and I asked you three months ago as Receiver of H. N. Brown to pay me what you were owing. And now I tell you in plain terms if you do not I am going to make it if there is any chance and that very soon, I would not be surprised if there are not some persons sued for obtaining goods under false pretences. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Winter Weather.

There was a fall of snow on Friday, covering the ground to the depth of two inches. This was the first of the season. Sunday was a dismal day with a cold freezing rain. Evidently winter is not over.

THE SWEPSON CASE.

The case was concluded last Tuesday, by binding over G. W. Swepson in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance at the next Superior Court of Alamance County.

We distribute with this issue an extra, with a full statement of the evidence before the Magistrates.

A HOME MARKET.

We call attention to the Ad of John Kirkland &Co. It is particularly important to the Country Merchant in reference to his supplies of groceries. This firm lays in its supplies in such quantities and on such terms that the wholesale buyer can do as well at home as he can by sending abroad and buying at home, keeps that much more money from going abroad.

OUT OF DEBT.

At last! Out of Debt! and Orange County is again free. This is indeed something to be proud of. And now we hope to see taxes lessened, and we hope to see those levied applied to the substantial improvement of the county, the roads, bridges &c.

The Commissioners have bought a safe to accumulate their surplus funds, but the people would rather see the money usefully applied rather than hoarded up, merely for the purpose of accumulation.

Commissioners.

The County Commissioners are in session at this time, engaged on routine business. It is to be hoped that they will devote some time to the consideration of the road from Hillsboro to Cedar Grove. The remarks of our correspondent a week or two ago revealed a condition of things discreditable to the county, and now altogether without excuse, since the revenues of the county are unencumbered, and ought to be devoted to the improvement of the highways. It is a pretty state of things when the impassable condition of a main thoroughfare to the county seat, should suggest the division of the county.

LOSS OF FENCING.

A fire broke out in the woods last week near the farm of Stephen Faucett, and before it was checked, burned upwards of two thousand panels of fencing for Mr. Faucett. This is a very serious loss, laying nearly his whole plantation open, to be enclosed again at a time when his labor ought to be devoted to something else.

J. R. Gattis sells on commission all sorts of provision and country produce. See his Ad.

We publish the obituary of Capt. Silas M. Link whose death occurred on the 24th of January. The tribute to his memory is from one who knew his virtues and has not over-stated them.

The Tobacco Warehouse.

Our market is on the tip-toe of expectation for the breaks of Tuesday and Wednesday. There seems to be a feeling of confidence that the Warehouse this time will be a success, and the favor that is extended to it by all of our citizens is a guarantee of its success. Let all work together. "A long pull, a strong pull, an a pull altogether" will pull Hillsboro out of its low estate.

DURHAM HOTEL.

We were misinformed as to the landlord of the new Durham Hotel. We are sorry to hear that the most excellent landlord of the Orange House Mr. L. L. Hassell is to take charge of the Durham house on the first of March. His house here we regret to say has not been patronized as it ought to have been. His table has always been most excellent, and we despair of finding any one else so acceptable to the public.

ALL MUST DIE.

This is a sad fact, and it behooves us to be prepared to die right when the time comes. Few of us expect it until old age overtakes and admonishes us with grey hairs that the time has arrived when we must dye. Then we look around to find out the best way. We will tell you. Use no other dye than Dr. Tutt's and you will dye right. Your grey hairs will disappear like magic and in this place you will have glossy, black whiskers, moustache and hair—a perfect imitation of natures, so natural that it can not be detected, and your dyeing expenses will be but one dollar.

W. A. Hays druggist is now receiving a fresh supply of his line, which he proposes to sell at the lowest prices. Call and see him.

HUGHES's ACADEMY Jan. 25th 1876.

MR. EDITOR.—Dear Sir: As there has been some little irregularity in the mode of giving certificates to applicants for teachers' certificates the County Board of Education, having, by law the supervision and control of school matters in Orange, direct that no one member of the Board shall give a certificate to an applicant, but all certificates must emanate from the Board. Private examinations are not allowed.

For the accommodation of applicants for certificates, therefore, a meeting of the Board of Examiners will be held at the Court-House on the first Saturday of March 1876.

The next meeting of Orange County Grange will be held at Little River Grange on the 10th of February. Each subordinate Grange is entitled to three representatives, but any member in good standing in the Order will be allowed a seat in the County Grange. Let there be a full attendance.

ALAS THE JUDGEMENT DAY.

The time is moving swiftly on,
It moves without delay.
We all from hence must soon be gone,
"Alas the Judgment day."

The day with us will soon be spent,
We'll, here no longer stay,
The rocks and hills shall soon be rent
'Alas the Judgment day.'

How out the sun will soon be said,
Leave not one sparkling ray,
The graves shall then give up their dead
"Alas the Judgment day.'

The moon will soon be turned to blood
The earth shall then decay;
Ye, wicked weep and shout ye good
"Alas the Judgment day.'

Oh; sinner stay now where you are
And bow thy knee and pray,
And shun oh; shun that black dispair
'Alas the Judgment day.'

THE SWEPSON EXAMINATION CONCLUDED.

[SPECIAL TO DAILY NEWS.]

GRAHAM, Feb. 2.—The evidence in the Swepson-Moore trial was concluded yesterday. The chief point developed on the part of the prosecution was by Alexander Holt, who testified that two years ago Swepson told him in his (S's house, that he would kill Moore if he ever crossed his path. To-day, the case was argued, on the part of the defence by Col. Fuller on the grounds of justifiable homicide. The prosecution was represented in the argument by Messrs. Scott and Dillard.

The Court bound Swepson over to the next term of the Superior Court of Alamance County in a bond of ten thousand dollars, Messrs. R. Y. McAden and W. F. Askew being on the bond.

The Court then adjourned. X.

CUT THIS OUT,

IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

There is no person living but what suffers more or less with Lung Disease Coughs, Colds or Consumption, yet some would die rather than pay 75 cents for a bottle of medicine that would cure them. Dr. A. Roschee's German Syrup has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wondrous cures astonish every one that try it. If you doubt what we say in print, cut this out and take it to your Druggist Dr O. Hooker, and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it, or a regular size for 75 cents.

See Ad. of C. W. Westbrook. All those wishing anything in his line would do well to heed his call.

Ozæna—an Offensive Disease in the Nose—Which eats away the partition bone destroys the sense of smell, produces green or yellowish scabs, the shape of the nostril—sometime flat, often tainted with blood and matter; causes weight and dull aching over the eyes, headache, loss of memory, giddiness, &c. This disease is often caused by neglected colds, by suppressed skin diseases, Scrofula, Measels, Scarlet Fever, Psoriasis, Syphilis, and other contagious diseases, and is itself contagious. It often extends to the throat, producing Hoarseness, Bronchitis and Consumption. It is a tertiary form of Cancer, destroying the nose and throat when too long neglected. Dr. Jones is the only Physician in the United States who thoroughly understands curing this dangerous and offensive disease. He destroys the offensive smell in five minutes, and relieves the sufferer in every way at once, and cures the disease in a short time. Dr. Jones is now practicing at the Mc Adoo House Greensboro N. C. where he remains a short time. Send for circular and if you are afflicted go get cured ere it is two late.

Deafness and Sick Headache Cured by Dr. Jones—Read the evidence.—I came to Dr. Jones afflicted with deafness and noise in my ears, and also sick headache. I have been treated by him for three weeks and return home cured of both diseases—which had troubled me every day before during the past five years. I had been treated by a number of family physicians without any relief. I recommend Dr. Jones as a very skilful and pleasant physician.

OBITUARY.

Captain Silas M. Link departed this life on the night of the 24th of Jan., at the residence of his son in law Dr. W. R Hughes, in Durham at the advanced age of 73 years.

The memory of a man of the life and character of Silas M. Link, deserves more than this simple notice, on the part of the immediate community in which he lived—it is due to his family and descendants and is of value to the community. Mr. Link was a man of fine intellect, his mind was of an accute investigating character which refused to accept dogmas without inquiry. He was fond of reading and became unusually well informed. He delighted especially in old books old sayings and old time virtues, and acquired much curious information from distinguished authors of the olden times.

He took a deep interest in politics always acted with the conservative party, but reserved the right to himself of entertaining his own independent opinions.

No man more admired lofty bearing, commanding talents, and eloquence in political leaders, and he gloried in the fame of Orange County in having had an unbroken line of such public men in all his day, passing down in uninterrupted succession from the days of James Mebane, Duncan Cameron and Archibald D. Murphy to the present time.

He distinctly foresaw and foretold the inevitable rupture of our political system and prudently provided against one of its evils by parting with his slaves years ago, which he did in a humane manner.

Mr. Link maintained a high moral character, without stain or reproach through life. He was just and upright in all his dealings, and faithfully and well acted his part in all the relations of life, as citizen, neighbour, husband, parent and master.

Early in life he was elected county surveyer, and eminently qualified himself for the discharge of its duties, and deservedly rose to high distinction in that line. He retained the office until a few years since, when he voluntarily gave it up. And although the county was divided and two surveyors were appointed for Orange in place of one, and Mr. Link would not go out in bad weather or into the woods if the wind was blowing at all, and his fees were small, and he would not take one cent more than the law allowed him, the amount of work done by him may be estimated by the fact that he had received $10,000 made up of these small fees. He made himself by diligent preparatory study, & with professional aid familiar with the law of North Carolina relating to Boundaries, Descents and Registration, and owned and profitably read the leading decisions of the Supreme Court on such subjects; and was himself an excellent conveyancer.

He was often examined in court as a witness in Land suits and in giving in his testimony exhibited in a remarkable manner his conscientious and scrupulous regard for the exact truth and his detestation of falsehood or prevarication.

From his life and conversation Captain Link, might at all times have been taken for a Christian and in his last illness declared that for forty years he had tried to serve God, but felt too unworthy to declare his name or enter his church. And in terms of the riches consolation and comfort to his family and friends abundantly declared his faith in salvation only through the merits of his Saviour Jesus Christ, and rejoiced that the summons had come for his spirit to leave the body and enter the spirit world, where he could praise God. His mind remained perfect to the last moment.

Capt. Link was twice married and by his first wife has left an interesting family of children. He had no children by his last wife who died several years before him.

The writer believes the community in which Captain Link lived will accept this poor notice as a deserved tribute to the memory of a worthy intelligent honest man.

RR. TUTT:

Dear Sir:—Having used in my family for six years your Expectorant, I deem it due to yourself and the public to state that I have uniformly found it efficient in relieving and curing pulmonary diseases. I am strictly opposed to quackery, but touching this very pleasant and excellent medicine "I have testified that which I do know and that which I have experienced."

Respectfully yours,

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

With what can we mix white paint for making numbers on woolen clothing? The ordinary paint rubs off in the course of manufacture. Answer. Try the following: Macerate (in a mortar) oxide of zinc with sufficient gum dammar and turpentine to give the proper body. This, we think, will obviate the difficulty.

How can I remove grease from a seal-skin cap, which has worked into the fur by contact with the hair? Answer. Try a little warm naphtha or benzole.

Is there anything that will settle or precipitate dirt in flowing varnish? I am using a varnish that has a good luster, but after it has flown, it appears to be sneckled with fine dirt. Answer. Thin the varnish down and filter through a small plug of cotton wool.

I am building an ice box, inside box one inch in thickness, composed of black walnut, and lined with zinc. The outside of this box I wish to cover with felting one-half inch in thickness. The outer box is to consist of one inch in thickness of black walnut. Would this make a good family ice box? Answer. An air space of two inches thickness between the outer and the inner box is as good for the preservation of ice as would be a packing with some filling like powdered charcoal or other material, but the space must be thoroughly air-tight. Place the ice near the top, and the articles to be preserved lower; provide means to catch the drip from the ice—a sheet of zinc, perforated from below with holes to pass air down but not water, will do—and set a small pipe in the bottom to carry off the water. Make the lid of the box to contain an air space as well as the sides.

At what time in the year should I cut timber for wagon lumber etc; so as to prevent the worms from getting into the lumber? Answer. The proper time for felling trees is that in which the largest quantity of hard and durable wood can be obtained as free from sap as possible. Timber is felled during the cold months, when the natural juices are most inactive, and the tree, in a measure, dormant. To properly season the wood, it is necessary that it should be exposed for about a year to the influence of dry air.—Scientific American.

PRACTICE AGAINST THEORY.

Theory is a very good thing. Practice is a better. A man will set to work and theorize and he will make himself a rich man in a few minutes if his plans would work in practice.

You talk some men about the plain of diversifying their crops, and they will at once proceed to show you that there is more money in cotton than there is in anything else. This may look so to them, but to us it does not so appear. Take any man in Bertie county who raises cotton and nothing else to sell and you will be sure to find a man who is hard up at the end of the year.

Still worse, take a man who makes all cotton, and buys all of his corn, fodder and peas, and you will be sure to find a man who does not pay his debts.

Now in theory they say that they can demonstrate that sort of business to pay.

On the other hand, you notice a man who makes perhaps five bales of cotton three hundred barrels of corn, and some peas. With his corn he will fatten perhaps for sale, six thousand pounds of pork. His whole crop will be worth to him at present prices perhaps fifteen hundred dollars. His neigbor who has cultivated all cotton may make as much gross. But look at the expenses. The man who cultivates all cotton will have to pay more than double the expenses. He needs more hands to work the cotton, then to pick it out, the bagging and ties, then the commission merchant has to be paid to sell it. Up one side and down the other, we can't help thinking that the man who raises hogs, and fodder and then some cotton is the best off In our county we know this is true.—Albemarle Times.

RAISING CLOVER SEED

Having had some experience, says a correspondent of the Country Gentleman, in clover raising, I will say for the benefit of any who may be interested in the subject, that I believe it produces more milk than either timothy or corn fodder, and at the same time I find that land improves by frequently being seeded to clover.—As to whether plaster is indispensable, I have always used it with varied results. The present season I had twenty acres of clover, which I had intended for seed, and to which I applied, about May 20th, 100 lbs. of plaster per acre. On examining the heads this fall, I found that very few of them contained seed—in fact, I do not think the 20 acres would have produced 5 bushels, and I abandoned the idea of cutting it for seed, and put a part in for feeding, and pastured the remainder. On an adjoining farm I saw some clover very well filled with seed where no plaster was used.

Carbolic acid diluted with water, will destroy almost any kind of small insect, especially the small lice which infest poultry houses.

FOR 1876. $1

APPLETON'S JOURNAL,

A HOUSEHOLD WEEKLY MAGAZINE.

DEVOTED TO

Popular Literature, and all Matters of Taste and Culture.

APPLETONS' JOURNAL appears in new type and with other mechanical improvements, making it the handsomest weekly literary journal in the country. Appletons' Journal aims to be comprehensive, including in its plan all branches of literature, and treating all subjects of interest to intelligent readers; it designs to be elevated in taste and pure in tone; it gives in quantity fully twenty-five per cent. more than the largest of the Monthly Magazines, while in quality its literature is of the highest class.

Price, $4 per Annum; 10 cents per Number.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The undersigned have procured, exclusively for subscribers to Appletons' Journal, a splendid steel engraving of which is offered, under special terms, to every subscriber—in advance—to Journal for 1876.

"CHARLES DICKENS IN HIS STUDY,"

This steel engraving is in line and stipple. It is not a fancy picture, but an actual representation of Charles Dickens's study at Gadshill, while the portrait of the distinguished author is strikingly faithful.

The size of the plate is 20x14 printed on heavy plate paper 24x30, making a large and handsome engraving for the parlor or library wall. The execution of the plate is of superior order.

The ordinary price of a steel engraving of this character in the print shops would not be less than five, and perhaps six dollars. It is offered exclusively to subscribers, in addition to the Journal for one year, for $3.00; that is, for $1, additional; each yearly advance subscriber to the Journal for 1876 may receive a superb engraving worth fully five times the amount.

This engraving is entirely new. It has never been for sale in the print-shops, and cannot be obtained except in connection with Appletons' Journal upon the terms and conditions given above. It will be mailed to subscribers postage prepaid.

and what is of equal interest to purchasers, are a marvel of cheapness.

We warrant them for twelve months. Farmers and merchants who have to wagon their produce and goods will save 25 per cent. of their hauling expenses by buying these wagons. We guarantee entire satisfaction to every purchaser.

We issue for free circulation a small wagon catalogue, with full description and prices.

STOCK FARMERS

are invited to send for circulars of Feed-Steamers, Fodder-Cutters and Light Horse Powers; also, Corn and Cob-Crushers and Root-Cutters.

Our old customers are assured that the burning of our Factory last year has not in the slightest degree lessened our ability to fill their orders for goods in our line. On the contrary, we have now a larger factory, more and better machinery to manufacture with, and a larger and better stock of material and manufactured goods than we ever had. ADDRESS AS ABOVE.

DR. WADE'S "LIVER CORRECTOR"

AND CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.
Free from Alcoholic Stimulants.

Among the many discoveries of valuable remedies for Dyspepsia, none stand higher than "WADE'S LIVER CORRECTOR."

Read the Following Testimonials:

Berea P O, Granville N C Mar. 16 '74.

Dr. Wade: Dear Sir—Have been afflicted with Liver Disease 3 or 4 years, which at times amounted to derangement. When in Baltimore last November, I procured one bottle of Liver Corrector. I now consider myself well.
Yours, respectfully,
ISAAC N. DAY, of Day & Meadows.

Prof. Moorman, Emeritus, of Washington University, Md, now Resident Physician, White Sulphur Springs, says:

Dr. Wade's Liver Corrector and Dyspepsia Cure is one of the very best remedies for Dyspepsia I have ever used.'

Dr. Jones, a prominent physician in Virginia, who has prescribed it for two years, says:

'I can find no better remedy for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint than Wade's Liver Corrector.'

Col. Goode, a prominent and well known gentleman of Va. says:

I keep it regularly in my family, and would not be without it.

Mr John A McArthur, County Treasurer of Duplin N C says: Wade's Liver Corrector has done me more good, and given me more relief in Dyspepsia, than any medicine I ever took, &c.

Prof. Noel, of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Baltimore, and a distinguished practitioner in that city, prescribe and uses it in his own family and says: It is the best remedy for Dyspepsia with Torpid Liver and Constipation of Bowels I ever knew.

Baltimore Sun says: Dr Wade's Liver Corrector is prescribed by our best physicians, for Dyspepsia and Liver Diseases, and we advise any of our friends suffering with such, to give it a trial.

Catholic Mirror says: We recommend Wade's Liver Corrector to all who are suffering with any chronic disease of Liver. We can speak of its merits as we have tried it.

Dr Walker, a celebrated physician of W Va., pronounces. Wade's Liver Corrector the best remedy extant for Dyspepsia in all its forms.

LIEBIG'S LIQUID BEEF,

EXTRACT OF

AND TONIC INVIGORATOR.

Recommended by the best physicians in England and America for Consumption, Debility, Loss of Appetite, Fever, Ague, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Female and Children maladies.

OPINION OF DR R S STEUART, Pres Md. Insane Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

" " I can recommend Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef as the most efficient preparation" I have ever met with. It combines the virtues of food and tonic in a remarkable way.

Opinion of DR WM H STOKES, Physician to Mount Hope Retreat, near Baltimore.

" " I have great pleasure in adding my testimony to the virtues of Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef and Tonic Invigorator, as the very best preparation used, and therefore confidently recommend it to the medical profession.
